Deployment and implementation are to be done for each component when ready. Due to the clients demands and wishes being agile is the key with the delivery, keeping the development cycles short will help us build the right product to scale and bring to market quickly.